Amandaville.

We have been taking your paper only for a short while, but like it very much. In fact, most every reading man around here takes it and we all think it about the best county paper that has ever struck us.

Nothing much new going on down here. Some bad colds and gripe in the country, otherwise the health of the community is good.

Esq. John D. Sharp's wife has been on the sick list for ten days or more, but is better now.

Mr. Bob Elliott, who has been afflicted for a long time with a cancer on his face, is growing worse very rapidly and there seems to be no sort of a chance for the doctors to give him any permanent relief.

We are having nice Springlike weather and it is giving a black eye to the hogkilling business.

The corn crop on Crocus is about gathered, the yield was reasonably good, the grade of a superior quality to ordinary, it usually sells here at gathering time at about two dollars per barrel, but this year it is going at two-fifty and not much to be had at that.

No hogs scarcely at all, fatten on Crocus this year for the market and what few there is, are being readily disposed of at 5 cents per pound.

The Gulf Red Cedar Company, of Alabama and Virginia have been doing immense work in the cedar business on Crocus creek and its tributaries, during the past Summer and Fall. They have cut, hauled and thrown in the bed of the creek, at different places for some eight or ten miles above here, twenty or twenty-five thousand cedar poles and logs, ranging in size, from six inches to two feet in diameter and from ten to sixty feet in length, all to go down the creek on the first big rise to near its mouth, where they expect to catch them in some monster booms that they have prepared there for that purpose. Then to be rafted and shipped down Cumberland river to some market, (which I have forgotten,) to be made into cedar pencils. Now if these logs don't block up, on their way down and tear the bottom out of Crocus creek or some man's corn field, it will be a wonder to Davie Crockett.

Your paper has quite a lot of interesting correspondents scattered over the country and I enjoy reading their letters very much, especially those from Dirigo and as that individual seems to be the sickest and sorest person over the results of our late election, that I have yet read about, and as I feel a kinder joyful sorrow for him, I will just say to him. Sonie, stand up and cheer up and quit throwing up, and swallow your medicine like a little man and stand still and wait and watch when Big Bill Taft gets to the helm of this mighty Government of ours, with such men in Congress and the Senate, to stand by him as Capt. D. C. Edwards and old Bill Bradley and see how things do move.

Salting Down Meat.

Curing meat for future consumption is one of the annual jobs on the farm. In some sections of the country the problem of salting down meat is a serious one because of the heat. In sections of the South there are winters when there is very little cold weather and it is not until late that hogs may be slaughtered. Here is a receipt which is said to be a good one: For 1,000 pounds of meat take ten quarts of saltpeter; one pound of pepper and two pounds of yellow sugar. Mix well, put in a tub or some suitable vessel, and then apply the mixture well to the meat.

Care should be taken to apply it thoroughly in the cracks and around the edges. After the meat has taken all the salt possible, hang it up and powder it with powdered borax. Then smoke the meat. This is said to be the most successful method of salting meat there is, both from a standpoint of purity and flavor.—Ex.

Keep the Cow Clean.

Dr. J. G. B. Bullock, who is a member of the Bullock family of Georgia, and a cousin of President Roosevelt, in making an address recently before the International Tuberculosis Congress, called attention to the milk supply and declared that while we are desirous of preventing the spread of tuberculosis we should look out for other diseases.

"A cow," he said, "should be kept as clean or cleaner than an individual by being thoroughly bathed at least once or twice a week. Only the purest water should be given her, for if allowed to drink from the impure stream of the pasture or from pools of water she may in this way infect the milk and thus carry the germs of disease.

"The attendant should not only be a healthy individual, free from disease of nose and throat, but should wear a white suit and should have hands thoroughly washed before milking; the udder of the cow should at every milking be thoroughly washed and all vessels intended to receive the milk should be thoroughly scoured. The stall where the cow is to be milked should be of cement finish and thoroughly cleaned before the milking process begins. After the milk is drawn it should immediately be put open the ice and the utensil kept upon to prevent the development of tyrotoxin."

Be Patient.

Patience has been sometimes regarded as a negative virtue. In recounting the traits of true, manhood we are apt to overlook this quiet and unobtrusive factor in greatness of character. Patience is an essential of all worthy achievement. It is the power that overcomes and gains the goal. Many a man of high purpose falls short of attainment by reason of impatience. It is the weakness of ardent souls that they will not tolerate delay. There is something splendid in the spirit that compels circumstances and drives through the opposing lines of fate; but in a majority of instances the man who seeks success by this method falls a martyr to the cause he champions. The attitude of him who waits and plans and forges on to his mark step by step, winning the prize without fanfare of trumpets or tumult of appearance, but winning it with his powers still fresh and his reserve of strength undiminished, is no less splendid. He lives to enjoy the advantage of his labor. He survives to serve in the larger sphere that he has reached by patience.

An old colored man stole a pig and after getting home with the animal knelt to pray before retiring. His wife heard him praying to the Lord to forgive him for stealing the pig. She went to sleep with Uncle Eph still praying. Later in the night she woke up and saw him still kneeling in prayer. At daybreak his supplications had not ceased. "Eph, why don't you come to bed?" asked his wife. "Let me lone, 'Riah; de mo' I tries to, splain to de Lord how I come to steal dat pig de wurser I get mixed.

What is the funniest story you ever heard? A man of this town being asked the question, told this one. At a Sunday school the teacher asked: "Who drove the children of Israel into Canaan?" Not a child answered and there was continued silence after she had repeated the question. Then the teacher, with considerable spirit, said: "You, little boy on the back seat, who drove the children of Israel into Canaan?" He was badly frightened but managed to rise and say: "I never did; we just moved here from Missouri last week."—Kansas Newspaper.

Grit.

I hate the fellow who sits around
And knocks the livelong day—
Who tells of the work he might have done;

If things had come his way,
But I love the fellow who pushes ahead
And smiles at his work or play—
You can wager when things do come around,
They will come his way—and stay.

Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms cannot be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive. The quickest and surest remedy yet found for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juice, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally. A bottle of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1, and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case. For example, John W. Lee, 619 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a stubborn and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with pimples, blotches, jaundice, etc., and it cured him. Mrs. B. Flinchum, Jackson, Ky., says the same of it. "Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency, as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative."

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free test bottle if you will send your name and address. The sample will show you how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.
